

A Viewing Room
6 July to 13 August 2016

A Viewing Room is an evolving, collaborative installation between the gallery and local furniture designers Mercury Bureau and Tom Chung. Taking the viewing room—a traditionally private space—as point of inquiry, this project offers improvisational proposals for domestic space. By presenting a rotating selection of artworks from inventory, our hope is to provide an environment to re-examine a work's meaning and qualities of relation outside their original context. The documentation below displays a beginning, a place of activation.

In addition, for some time, we have been exploring how art and design circulate on social media platforms, hence the square format of the images – ready for sharing.
